

Juan Pablo Moreiras/FFI

Landscape Manager, Guinea Forestiere, Guinea

“In the past century FFI has consistently saved species from extinction and protected habitats from destruction. Their solutions have always been practical, efficient and sustainable in local circumstances.”

Sir David Attenborough,
FFI Vice-president

Fauna & Flora International

Fauna & Flora International (FFI) saves species from extinction and habitats from destruction, whilst improving the livelihoods of local people. Our guiding principles are to work through local partnerships, act as a catalyst for change, make conservation relevant and base decisions on sound science. Founded in 1903, FFI is the world's longest established international conservation body; our conservation work, and impact, spans the globe.

Africa Programme

Working closely with local partners, FFI currently operates in 13 countries in West, Central, East and Southern Africa, and is implementing a range of projects focused on species and habitat conservation, biodiversity planning, protected area management, institutional development and capacity building, sustainable use and community-focused wildlife management initiatives.

Guinea Programme

FFI operations are focused in the South-East region, the Guinea Forestiere landscape, which is home to Guinea's remaining and intact section of Upper Guinean Forest, rich in endemic and endangered species. These forests are at risk from extreme and immediate threats, such as expansion from shifting agriculture, mining and poaching. In the last decade, communities have also been faced with further challenges to their livelihoods presented by the biggest outbreak of Ebola HV to date.

FFI's current work in the Guinea Forestiere landscape focuses on the Ziama Man and Biosphere Reserve, although historically FFI have also engaged in the neighbouring Mount Nimba Strict Nature Reserve. FFI began working in the Ziama Man and Biosphere Reserve (MAB) in 2009, in partnership with the statutory authority responsible for the management of the forest, Centre Forestiere de N'Zerekore (CFZ). Ziama forest is contiguous with the Wonegizi proposed protected area (PPA) in Liberia where FFI also have operations. The Ziama MAB is also home to the last remaining population of forest elephant in Guinea, and FFI's work to date has primarily focused on providing protection to this species through emergency actions to alleviate elephant poaching and developing human-elephant conflict mitigation measures. However, FFI recognises that sustainable solutions must be holistic in nature, including transboundary issues, and the Guinea team have spent the last few years engaging with other national, regional and international stakeholders, especially local communities, with the aim of addressing sustainable resource use and ensuring the long-term management of the Upper Guinean Forest Landscape.

The Opportunity

FFI is seeking an experienced conservation professional to fulfil the role of Landscape Manager, Guinea Forestiere, assuming responsibility for the implementation and development of FFI's work in the Guinea Forestiere landscape, and to include certain transboundary collaboration with activities in the contiguous Wonegizi PPA in Liberia.

The successful candidate will have with a strong proven track record in supporting protected area management, ideally co-management and development models working with community members, in Africa. They will be skilled in providing strategic advice and technical input to the design, development, implementation, evaluation and reporting for projects and will have excellent project, grant and financial management skills.

Strong leadership and people management skills are essential to the role to ensure a professional and motivated team that delivers effectively against project aims, objectives and timelines. The role also requires a skilled and credible communicator, who is confident in developing and managing relationships with partner organisations and relevant stakeholders, from local communities and community based organisations to funders.

The successful candidate will have a strong track record in project management, fundraising and capacity building and be able to demonstrate an understanding of the statutory and regulatory frameworks within which FFI operates in West Africa, as well as a commitment to organisational and legal compliance.

Final appointment will be subject to final confirmation of funding for the position.
